

Defence Advice

6-Echo provides a professional source of independent expertise to Naval customers.

We possess a particular expertise in underwater systems and underwater security.

6-Echo was formed in 2007 to act as an independent consulting service to technology providers and to defence customers world wide.

Across our network of trusted associates we cover the full naval domain but in house possess a significant technical and commercial expertise in

- Sonar Systems
- Underwater Systems
- Underwater Security Systems
- Maritime Security Systems

Acting either as an occasional source of advice or as a dedicated member of a procurement team, 6-Echo are positioned with the latest most up to date knowledge to advise on system procurement – from either an early stage prior to procurement through to tender assessment and customer liaison roles during equipment installation.

Selecting 6-Echo to act as the customer expert offers the following benefits:

- Rapid access to up to date advice
- Reduced procurement risk
- Expert Technical support on as needed basis – lowering costs where none exists internally
- Specialist technical analysis – again available without extensive commitment
